Travel Policy (US)

Version: 1.9

Effective Date: 2026-01-01

Applicability

This policy covers domestic and international travel booked by US-based employees. It supplements, and does not replace, the general Expense & Travel Policy's rules on receipts, submission deadlines, and non-reimbursable items.

Flight Class

For US-based employees, business class requires VP approval for flights over 5 hours — one hour shorter than the general Expense & Travel Policy's 6-hour threshold used for India-based travel, reflecting typical US domestic route lengths. This is a deliberate regional difference, not an error: check which region's policy applies to the traveler before approving.

Per Diem

US-based business travel receives a daily allowance of $75 for meals and incidentals — a separate, region-specific number from the general Expense & Travel Policy's ■1,500 figure (which applies to India-based travel). Do not convert currencies to compare these two numbers; each applies only within its own region.

Rental Cars

Economy or compact rental cars are standard. An upgrade to a larger vehicle requires manager approval and a business justification (e.g. transporting equipment or multiple colleagues).

Hotel Caps

City Tier	Nightly Cap
Tier 1 (NYC, SF, major metros)	$250

Tier 2	$180
Tier 3	$130

Mileage Reimbursement

Personal vehicle use for business travel is reimbursed at the current IRS standard mileage rate, submitted within the same 30-day window as other expenses under the general Expense & Travel Policy.
